Fortifications

1. In November 1955, the Czech and Soviet military started to rebuild the fortifications which the Czechs destroyed as they retreated from the advance of the Nazis. Bunkers, which have three openings, are being constructed on the sides of the hills, each manned by a commander and four soldiers. Very little appears above the ground, but rooms are hollowed out in the rock of the hills for the crew. This is a defensive, not an offensive, set-up. (See Sketch 1)
